

New Mexico State Film Office Announces
The New Mexico Film & Media Industry Conference
Albuquerque May 10-11, 2013

SANTA FE – Film Office Director Nick Maniatis today announced the State Film Office will host the New Mexico Film & Media Industry Conference. This two-day, networking event will include a series of panel discussions on incentives, financing, logistics, post-production and emerging media by industry professionals with exceptional credentials. Attendees will also be able to meet representatives from a wide-variety of local vendors in the exhibit area.

“This is a great opportunity for local filmmakers to get specific information about the industry in New Mexico,” said Director Nick Maniatis. “We have panels of experts to talk about a variety of aspects of filmmaking.”

This event is free to attend; however, space is limited and pre-registration is required.
