The New Mexico Film Office Announces “The Rambler” filming in New Mexico

SANTA FE —New Mexico Film Office director Nick Maniatis announced today that the feature film, “The Rambler,” is shooting in and around Roswell, Dexter and Hagerman.

The production employs at least 30 New Mexico crew members and 30 New Mexican principal and background talent.

The Rambler is directed by Calvin Lee Reeder (The Oregonian) and produced by Roger M. Mayer, Christo Dimassis (The Oregonian, Boppin’ At The Glue Factory), and Nate Bolotin (The Raid: Redemption).

Starring Dermot Mulroney (About Schmidt, The Grey), Lindsay Pulsipher (True Blood, The Oregonian), Natasha Lyonne (American Pie, But I’m a Cheerleader), The Rambler tells the story of a recently released prison man (Dermot) who stumbles upon a strange mystery as he attempts a dangerous journey through treacherous back roads and small towns en route to reconnecting with his long lost brother.
