The New Mexico Film Office Announces a New Multimedia Production by Meow Wolf Being Developed In New Mexico

SANTA FE, NM – The New Mexico Film Office announces Meow Wolf Stream, a multimedia production, produced by Meow Wolf. The production is currently being produced in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

“Meow Wolf is always up to something exciting, and New Mexico’s well-established film, television, and multimedia ecosystem provides just what they need to create the exciting, immersive, multimedia experiences that are produced by this highly creative team,” Amber Dodson, director of the New Mexico Film Office, said.

After opening Omega Mart in Las Vegas in February 2021, and Convergence Station in Denver in September 2021, Meow Wolf is already hard at work, producing its next immersive experience, Meow Wolf Stream, a narrative-based multimedia piece.

Sandra Wang is serving as creative director (Convergence Station), and it is being produced by Jacqueline Delaney (Omega Mart, Convergence Station).

“We can’t reveal too much, but let’s just say our next exhibition project will be an inspiring trip into the collaborative subconscious of Meow Wolf’s artists. Voyage into a strange psychic channel between worlds where creative ideas get lost and found. Travelers passing can learn to surf this stream and access their own creative flow,” Meow Wolf Producer Jacqueline Delaney said.

The production will employ approximately 55 New Mexico crew members and 10 New Mexico principal actors.
