

The New Mexico Film Office Announces “Built for Life Southwest: Indigenous Design I: Bandelier Edition” to film in New Mexico

Santa Fe, N.M. - New Mexico Film Office Director Nick Maniatis announced today that the documentary film “Built for Life Southwest Indigenous Design I: Bandelier Edition” produced by Archinia Films will begin principal photography at the end of August through the February 2019 in Bandelier National Monument, White Rock and San Ildefonso Pueblo.

The production will employ approximately 6 New Mexico crew members, 15 New Mexico actors and a 30 New Mexico background talent.

Directed and produced by Rachel Preston Prinz (“Emergence: Sky City”), the documentary is about Bandelier National Monument and its Tsankawi outlier, and oral interviews of park staff and indigenous elders and youth preservationists from its antecedents San Ildefonso and Cochiti Pueblos, to be made into a documentary and included in a comprehensive online education portal about New Mexico architecture, design, and sustainability. For more information contact: info@architectureforeverybody.org.

###

Visit the New Mexico Film Office online at nmfilm.com