The New Mexico Film Office Announces “Who Stole the Tasmanian Devils?” to film in New Mexico

Santa Fe, N.M. – The New Mexico State Film Office Director Todd Christensen announced today that the short “Who Stole the Tasmanian Devils?” produced by Loraque, LLC, a New Mexico production company, will begin principal photography at the beginning of this month through the mid-June in Albuquerque.

The production will employ 25 New Mexico crew members, 7 New Mexico actors and 5 New Mexico background talent.

The short is directed by Tom Carroll (“Big Bad Budget”) and produced by Brian Mangas (“Pregnant and Deadly”).

“Albuquerque is a great city, full of character, and the movie makes the most of our city and the people in it,” said director Tom Carroll.

Starring Kristin Broadwell (“People Just Doing Nothing”), Eric Martinez (“Brother’s Keeper”) and Quinton Aaron (“The Blind Side”), the short is the story of an Albuquerque fixer who’s called upon to help police figure out who stole the Tasmanian Devils from the zoo. For more information, contact:
